The Democrats will soon find out that they can't get a small figure in the Iowa campaign.

The biggest funeral ever seen in Ohio will take place week after next. But then, it won't be much of a job to bury the democratic party this year.

John Kelly got his work in pretty well in the New York democratic state convention. It is a very chilly day when Kelly can't make an uproar in a democratic convention.

Judge Hoody has so far recovered that his physicians tell him he can go to Ohio and make half a dozen speeches. The republicans will be under many obligations to Judge Hoody when the campaign is over.

An item from the Louisville Courier-Journal, which contains a good suggestion: "The German professor who succeeded in photographing a streak of lightning is warned to keep his weather eye on Jay-Eye-See."

The latest republican ticket announced for 1884 is Lincoln and Bruce, the latter the colored register of the United States treasury. Douglass' demand that the second place on the republican ticket be given the colored people, has already set the ball in motion.

Only think of the marvelous progress of this country within the life of one man. When a dinner was given to Mr. Marshall P. Wilder, at Boston, the other day, he said that when he came to this country there was not a single mile of railway on the continent. The year 1833 finds 120,000!

President Arthur wants to make another reform. He is in favor of consolidating a lot of useless custom districts, which do the public no good, and which are a great expense to the government. But he must consult congress about this, and when he does it will kick. You will observe that congress doesn't go much on that kind of reform, so that the worth, less custom districts will remain as they are.

There is a game on foot to hammer down the Northern Pacific stock and thereby run President Villard. But this game may not work to the satisfaction of Mr. Villard's opponents. A man who can compass Jay Gould, and build the Northern Pacific from the northern lakes to the Pacific coast after the road has become wrecked and the project of building abandoned, is not the man to be crushed when the great highway is finished. Let us see if Henry Villard can be thus driven to the wall and his road bankrupted.

A telephone dispatch from Beloit to the Gazette Thursday afternoon, announced that President Arthur had appointed Mr. Chas. Igersoll postmaster, vice H. P. Strong, deceased. This appointment will give very general satisfaction to the business interest of Beloit; and aside from that if any one had asked for the office on the score of faithful and constant service to the party in power, it would naturally have fallen to Mr. Igersoll. He is an unflinching republican, and above all has the courage of his convictions. He is thoroughly competent to give the Beloit people the very best postal service, and will take pride in honoring the position. He deserves the appointment he has received, and for this piece of good fortune he will receive the hearty congratulations of the press of the state.

A word to the wise farmer is sufficient. A report comes from Racine county that two swindlers are successfully operating among the farmers there, "selling them a mass of twisted metal strips with diverging points, called a cyclone destroyer, and to be placed on barns and houses at the rate of $22 each. These instruments are alleged by the "noted electricians" who sell them to be able to burst the worst storm-cloud ever known, no matter from what direction it comes. The swindlers produce numerous printed testimonials from owners of the wonderful invention, also printed slips alleged to have been reproduced from various Chicago and Milwaukee papers, detailing in the most flattering terms the perfect operation of the patent in recent storms; how the most frail buildings that were decorated with them withstood the mighty cloud, when mammoth brick structures were scattered to the four winds." The farmers of Rock county should be prepared to give such swindlers as these a cold reception. A farmer should always conclude to take about six months to consider the question of buying a patent right, and at the end he will have made up his mind that he doesn't want it, and will then be so much better off.

When Mr. Joseph Medill, editor of the Chicago Tribune, testified before the senate sub-committee on education and labor, the other day, he said that a fair estimate would place the amount of money annually spent in liquor in the United States at four hundred million dollars; and that the amount spent in tobacco would reach two hundred million dollars. The committee has asked for such information, which may be more or less valuable to the public, but the great question as to how this reckless expenditure of money in beverages that intoxicate, shall be largely checked, has not been discussed before the committee. Mr. Medill suggested that high license might do something to stop so much drinking, but the experience of the past does not lead one to have very strong faith that high license will make any striking reform in that direction. A high tax did not stop men smoking, but smoking increased during the time when the tax was the heaviest, and it seems that men will drink regardless of the price. The sub-committee would do well to call before it a few of the most practical temperance reformers, and let them testify on the subject. There would be widely different views, but that would be all the more interesting.

HARMONY REIGNS.

The New York Democracy Meet in Peace.

Ticket, Platform and Proceedings--The Butler Ticket.

Comment of the Boston Press--Prince Declines to Run--Maryland Republicans--Halstead and Hendricks--Notes.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 28.—The Democratic state convention opened under favorable auspices.

As John Kelly, the Tammany chief, entered the hall, he was cheered by the Tammany and Irving hall delegations in the gallery. The delegates arrived in a body, no preference being shown to any distinct body on admittance.

It was a noticeable fact that John Kelly was the only delegate cheered on entering the hall.

Daniel Manning, chairman of the state committee, called the convention to order, and presented the names of Alfred C. Chapin, of Kings county, as temporary chairman. In accepting, Mr. Chapin, addressed the convention, expressing thanks for the honor conferred. He spoke in the highest terms of the administration of Gov. Cleveland. Mr. Chapin was only interrupted when the name of Gov. Grover Cleveland was mentioned, and then the delegates applauded, the Tammany and Irving hall men, however, remaining silent. In the roll-call, when the name of Samuel S. Tilden, jr., was reached, the convention greeted it with long-continued applause.

Francis Lynde Stearns, a county Democracy delegate, presented a protest on behalf of the thirty-four county Democracy delegates against the admission of the Tammany representation. The protest was referred to the committee on contested seats when up called.

Business proceeded slowly, owing to the presentation of resolutions and discussion of the rules. The New York delegates mainly speaking. At the conclusion of the roll-call and the reception of the protests of contested delegations, the following resolution was offered:

Resolved, That the delegates from the several congressional districts select one delegate from each congressional district to constitute a committee on credentials, to which committee, as thus constituted, shall be referred all questions of contested seats.

Mr. Grady, of the Tammany delegation, offered the following amendment, which the mover of the original motion accepted:

Resolved, That the committee on contested seats consist of one member from each congressional district not contested, and be selected by the delegates from such district whose seats are not contested.

Ex-Mayor Cooper, representing the county Democracy, offered an amendment that New York city be excluded. The amendment of Mr. Cooper was finally voted down, and the resolutions were adopted.

Thomas C. Feiliche was introduced as the representative of the harmony meeting Monday night, in New York, and presented resolutions adopted by that body:

John F. Hendry read a communication from the Anti-Monopoly league, asking the convention to reaffirm the principle, in its previous platform, in reference to the placing of some restrictive power on grasping corporations.

J. L. Franey, on behalf of the workingmen, offered resolutions—first, asking for the abolition of the contract system in penal institutions; second, to secure for children the benefit of free schools; by prohibiting the employment in factories and workshops of persons under 14 years of age; third, the enactment and enforcement of the ten-hour law in mills and factories; and, fourth, the establishment of a state bureau of printing. The resolutions were all referred.

The usual committees were then appointed and a recess taken.

Upon resuming the chairman of the committee on contested seats offered a resolution declaring that in the county of New York the organization known as the county Democracy is the regular Democratic organization of the city and county of New York; that, for the purpose of permitting those Democrats in the city of New York not with the county Democracy to unite in the councils of the party, the seats in the convention of which the county of New York is entitled a distributed as follows: To the county Democracy, 38; Tammany hall, 24; Irving hall, 10. The chairman of the committee moved the previous question.

Grady, of Tammany, immediately jumped to his feet and said: "I ask that, upon the question as to whether the main question shall be put without a delegate on this floor having a right to say a word, the yeas and nays be called, and we will find out whether this is a democratic convention or whether it is completely under the control of some gag law." The roll was called, and the previous question was ordered—yeas 283, nays 93. The main question was then put and carried by viva voce vote.

Upon a motion by Grady to reconsider the vote, there was a hot discussion, the Tammany and Irving hall representatives roundly abusing the county Democracy. At the conclusion of Grady's speech there was a great tumult, and from the galleries and the speakers on the floor came loud cries of "Kelly," "J. Kelly," "The chair!" The matter was disposed of by Grady withdrawing his motion to reconsider.

Thomas C. Benedict, of Ulster county, was made permanent chairman.

The platform refers to the result of the last state election in the choice of its candidate by 200,000 majority, and denounces the proposition that the general government raise a long surplus revenue to distribute among the states, calls attention to the reform made in state government by the present administration, and on that record asks a renewal of the confidence of the people, endorses Gov. Cleveland's administration, and declares it one of the best the state ever had. The platform is silent on the tariff and other national questions.

Isaac H. Maynard and William Purcell were then named for secretary of state. The ballot resulted: Maynard 209, Purcell 173. The nomination of Maynard was immediate.

The ticket was completed as follows: Controller, Alfred C. Chapin; state treasurer, Robert A. Maxwell; attorney general, Denis O'Brien; engineer and surveyor, El. Nathan Sweet.

It was agreed that the state committee shall have power to decide who shall be the member from a district where there is a tie vote except in New York city. On motion of Mr. Grady, or Tammany, it was decided that the county of New York county, Tammany hall three, and Irving hall one, be adjourned.

Other Political News.

MARYLAND REPUBLICANS.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 28.—The Republican state convention met at noon. There was a very full attendance, including many of the leading Republicans (Chapman, J. Morris, son Harris, who was a candidate for governor against Carroll in 1876, and who, it is claimed by Republicans, was counted out by the Democrats, was made chairman. Henry Stockbridge, chairman of the state central committee, made a speech denouncing the Democratic party, and referring to Mr. Harris as an ex-governor of the state. After long deliberation a platform of principles was adopted. The platform is very elaborate. It approves of the administration of President Arthur, alleges abuses in the administration of the state government, and declares that only Republicans can bring about reform. It recommends the abolition of the office of tax commissioner and the transfer of its duties to the comptroller; the abolition of the offices of weighers of grain and hay, and the repeal of the law for the compulsory inspection of tobacco. It also inserts in its platform the minority report of the late Democratic state convention. It recognizes the right of laboring men to form combinations for protection, and points to the policy of protection of the Republican party. It holds that colored schools should be placed on an equality with white schools, opposes the convict labor contract system and freight discrimination against citizens of the state. Nominations were then invited and the following ticket endorsed: For governor, Congressman Hart B. Holton; for attorney general, R. Stockton Matthews, whose nomination for United States district judge was turned down by the senate, and for comptroller, Dr. Washington A. Smith, of Dorchester county. Republicans regard the ticket as a strong one, but there is no probability of its winning.

The Butler Ticket.

WITHDRAWAL OF PRINCE.

BOSTON, Sept. 28.—Hon. Frederick O. Prince, the secretary of the Democratic national committee, who was nominated for lieutenant-governor on the Butler ticket, telegrams from France that he can not accept the nomination. Mr. Prince has always been an opponent of Butler, and it was thought by the latter's friends to kill him off as a vice-presidential candidate by giving him a state office. A good many people see in it a shrewd move to prevent the nomination of Butler for the presidency next year.

THE PRESS.

The most remarkable thing about the attitude of the press on the convention is the apparent acquiescence of The Boston Post. The Post has also stood out against Butler, fighting him openly until now. It more than intimates its intention of falling into line, remarking editorially: "The Democrats did today's work which ought to almost convince us to commend the new crop of the voters of Massachusetts." The Globe declares that it was the best convention ever held, and that Butler's reelection is assured beyond doubt.

The Herald says: The protest against prohibition, the advocacy of the appointment of boards of arbitration, and the appeal for a law securing compensation to injured persons, are all that the platform contains that is not merely an antithesis of "anything to beat Butler" compressed to a sentence. The Republican platform was "Butler must go," but with the exception of the points we have noted the Democratic platform might be summed up in the words "Butler must stay." Regarding Butler's speech

The Herald says: Last year he was non-committal, and the people elected him a senator. This year he is equally as uncertain as to the future, and hence he must again count upon public curiosity. Stirring up the Ma shes and vetoing ungrammatical bills is not what Massachusetts people expect from their governor. But this is about all that Gov. Butler promises to do. He points to his sharp turns and tricks of the past year, the campaign and the failure of which have been repeatedly exposed, and says: "I promise nothing, but from these samples you may judge of what I will do in the future. Some reference should be made to what the governor looks to as a reward for his hard service at the state house. 'If we are faithful over a few things,' he says, 'we shall be placed over many.' It is not then, the reform of government of Massachusetts that he has at heart as an ultimatum, but the control of larger measures, thus making the indirect admission that his work of the past year and his operations next year, should be elected, are but a part of the ambitious policy of a man who has been infected with the presidential fever.

The Advertiser says that Butler's speech, like all his speeches, was stuffed to repletion with falsehoods in both form and content. The truth suggestion of the false—a characteristic piece of verbal trickery. It was intended to deceive throughout, and inasmuch as those who listened to it are anxious either to be deceived or to deceive others it had its effect. Gen. Butler's fertility in falsehood is a great advantage to him, for, as all his statements cannot be exposed by the most industrious speaker or newspaper, he gets the benefit of those which are not ascertained.

The Transcript says: The lowest thing ever done in politics in this state, doubtless, is the dirty, quick-medicine-advertisement-like pamphlet just issued by Butler for free distribution, containing a garbled rubbish of the Tewsbury testimony, illustrated with the cheap, nauseating cuts showing the notorious woman whom Butler raked up from the other life of New York, pieces of women's skin, of rows of corpses in the dissecting room, of rats gnawing a human face, and so forth, all executed in the style of a Police Gazette, and appealing with satanic accuracy to the same prurient curiosity and a morbid taste for the disgusting and cruel that are gratified by such pestiferous literature. How far Butler will go in pandering to the passions of the worst classes, time only will show.

The Journal says that the convention further than being a Butler meeting was a body which ratified the decrees of the Democratic state committee and their spokesmen. The large body of those who are alleged to be delegates practically had no voice in the selecting of the ticket.

The Butler independent state committee held a meeting here and endorsed the nomination of Gen. Butler. W. W. Nichols, one of their most prominent men, was expelled for telling a reporter that there was dissatisfaction among them.

NEBRASKA REPUBLICANS.

LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 28.—The Republican convention did not adjourn until 2 o'clock in the morning. M. J. Hull, J. M. Hiett, E. P. Holmes, and J. I. Mallitt were nominated for regents of the state university. The platform affirmed the principles of the party, endorsed President Arthur's administration, recommended legislation for the redemption of corporations if the law had not been strictly complied with, and declared for a tariff to protect American industry. S. B. Pound was nominated for judge of the second district.

MURAT HALSTEAD.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—Murat Halstead, of the Chicago Commonwealth, spoke hopefully of Republican success in Ohio and Cincinnati. He acknowledges a number of uncertain elements in his state, and remarks especially on the uncertain position of the German Republicans, saying: "The question is whether many of them will vote for the Republican county ticket will not be a little shy about voting for the legislative ticket. Gov. Foster's candidacy is being held before them, and it is true that he is not popular with the Germans. But Foster has not a sure thing on the senatorship even if the legislature is Republican. By reason of his prominence in the contest the field is against him, and forty things may beat him." Mr. Halstead said there were many other candidates for the senatorship, among whom he named ex-Gov. Noyes, Ben Butterworth, Olmstead, Comptroller Lawrence and others, including ex-Speaker Keifer. He pool-pooled the idea that the Democrats had no money, and said they always put up a poor mouth, but had plenty of the "news of the campaign."

THOMAS A. HENDRICKS.

Mr. Thomas Hendricks at the Grand Pacific hotel says concerning the Iowa campaign, where he has been speaking: "I think that the Democratic position on the tariff will permanently strengthen us in Iowa, though the temperance question is the leading issue in this canvass. I heard little said about the possibility of electing a supreme judge, but some Democrats appear to expect the election of their candidate for governor."

"Do you think the Democratic party, nationally, is coming around to a unanimity of opinion on the tariff?"

"I do not feel capable of answering that question. There is some difference of opinion among leaders of our party, but it is perhaps more in method of expression than in meaning."

"Will you speak in Ohio?"

"I think I shall be able to do so, though I would like to help the Democrats there if I could."

CAMPAIGN MEETINGS.

OSKAHOUSA, Iowa, Sept. 28.—Hon. William M. Springer addressed a very large audience at the opera house, in this city. His speech was devoted entirely to the tariff question.

WAVERLY, Iowa, Sept. 28.—The grand Republican rally here was presided over by the Rev. H. H. Green, who introduced Senator Hale, of Maine, who, after complimenting his hearers, about eight hundred in number, said that the people of Maine, like the people of Iowa, believed in schoolhouses and churches, and that the lowest percentage of illiterate citizens within its borders; that the soldiers of the two states stood shoulder to shoulder in the war; that they both believed in the Republican party, although the style of Maine had once in twenty-eight years wavered from the true principle. He then went on to discuss the questions before the people, devoting most of his time to a review of Republican national administration and the tariff question.

WASHINGTON, Iowa, Sept. 28.—Hon. William M. Springer, of Illinois, spoke to 3,000 persons in this place. His address was entirely devoted to a discussion of the tariff question, which he handled in a masterly manner. That his meeting might not interfere with the old settlers' celebration held here, he did not speak until after 3 o'clock, but the crowd remained to hear him and were greatly pleased.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 28.—Judge Allen G. Thurman opened the campaign for the Democrats at New Albany at a big mass-meeting. Several others spoke. Thurman referred to national issues and his personal friends on the Democratic ticket of his country, but made no reference to Judge Hoody or the leading issues in the canvass, such as temperance, tariff, and the like.

TOLLEDO, Ohio, Sept. 28.—Ex-Gov. E. F. Noyes spoke here to an audience of about fifteen hundred persons on the political issues of the present campaign. The speaker dwelt principally on the tariff question and the Scott law.

IOWA CITY, Iowa, Sept. 28.—J. G. Kluma, Democratic candidate for governor, addressed a very large audience at the opera house, confining himself almost entirely to the tariff and prohibition issues.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Sept. 28.—Hon. B. J. Hall, of Burlington, addressed a large audience here. He discussed the temperance question very fully.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 28.—Throughout the rural districts of the state the Prohibitionists are the active workers in the canvass. Every school district is organized, and the "second amendment" is the only topic of conversation.

THE END OF THE NEGRO CONVENTION. LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 28.—The colored convention, after the adoption of address, did no business of any importance, but adjourned almost immediately. Most of the members have gone home.

If you suffer with Sick Headache, Constipation, Sour Stomach, or Bilious attacks, Burt's Liver and Catarrh Pills will relieve you.—15 cents.

TAKES AWAY THE ROMANCE. Chicago Times. Nothing more disgusting a party of Newport fox-hunters than to have an old cow get ahead of them and go racing and snorting along, with her bull in the air and terror in her soul. It looks as though they were chasing the cow, and that's not an English custom.

THE JOURNALIST.

The Courier-Journal remarks: "The journalist is an orator who makes 365 speeches a year," and it might have been added, that the audience considerably after the speech is through.

New Orleans Picayune: When a vulgar man becomes rich, and his family govern society, a great fuss is made if his daughter marries her father's coachman, although society said nothing when the girl's father married the girl's father, because the father was a burlesque then, and had not struck his bonanza. Society is very unreasonable, and is always turning up its nose in the wrong place.

Colton: Pedantry crams our ears with learned lumber, and takes out our brains to make room for it.

A Clergyman's Testimony.

W. E. Gifford, pastor M. E. church Bothwell, Ont., was for two years a sufferer with dyspepsia in its worst form until as he states "life became an actual burden." Three bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters cured him and he tells us in a recent letter that he considers it the best family medicine now before the country for dyspepsia and liver complaint.

An Explanation.

TO THE PUBLIC.

Having fully determined last spring to make a change in our business we advertised a closing out sale and the prices at which we sold goods was proof of our sincerity. Certain unexpected occurrences have prevented for the present, the contemplated change, we shall continue our business as before until further notice. Inasmuch as we have always fulfilled our promises and announcements to the public, except in this instance, and we intend always to fulfill them, we make this explanation to assure the people that our notice of a change of business was no threadbare device to draw trade.

Briefs.

—People's Lodge, I. O. G. T., assembled this evening.

—W. H. Sargent Post No. 20 G. A. R. rally at headquarters this evening.

—Bower City Temple No. 3, P. C. will hold a regular meeting this evening.

—We understand that Mr. Royal Wood contemplates building a new residence on the east side this fall.

—Captain Maclean is making some needed repairs in the rear of the building occupied by Messrs. Stearns & Baker's drug store.

—The jury in the case of Henry Miller, who was tried in the municipal court yesterday afternoon charged with an assault upon Thomas Pratt, were unable to agree, and were discharged.

—A large number of Janesville people visited the Illinois state fair in Chicago yesterday, and those who returned last evening report the great city crowded with people, and a regular jam on the fair grounds.

—Dr. Jacob Fowler, the Indian doctor well known in this city, was drowned in Lake Winnebago, last week, while attempting to cross the lake in a boat to attend the Oshkosh fair, and his body has not yet been recovered.

—A couple of our prominent officials were seen last evening, on their way to the 8:45 north bound train on the North western road. They were each accompanied with a first class breech-loader, and said they were bound for the Michigan peninsula.

—We understand that in case a sidewalk is built to the entrance of Oak Hill cemetery, the trustees of the Catholic cemetery will build a like walk from that point to their cemetery gates, which would be an accommodation over which all the people in the city would rejoice.

—In our notice of the runaway yesterday afternoon, we omitted to mention the fact that when the runaways passed the Williams block on East Milwaukee street, a tire of one of the wheels came off, which rolled against one of the large glass windows in the upholstery establishment of Messrs. Morse, demolishing the glass. But one wheel of the Cutts' wagon was smashed.

—The September expenses of the institution for the education of the blind, located in this city, as audited by the state board of supervision, in Madison, yesterday, amounted to $1905.54, while the September expenses of the six state institutions—the state hospital at Madison, the Oshkosh hospital, the state prison, the industrial school, the deaf and dumb institute, and blind asylum—amounted to a total of $36,299.78.

—Mrs. Sarah Clifford, of the town of Janesville, died yesterday forenoon, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. Mar der, after a short illness of pneumonia, aged eighty-one years. The deceased had resided in this vicinity for the past twenty-five years, where she had gained the friendship of a large circle of friends. She leaves a family of ten children besides a large number of friends to mourn her loss. The funeral will take place tomorrow, at 9 o'clock, at the late home, and at 1 o'clock at the M. E. church in Magnolia, where the remains will be buried.

—One of the attractions at the Rock county fair is to be a firemen's tournament, to which the Beloit companies have been invited. Many of our citizens are very anxious to have our boys participate and hope that they will do so for fear that the Janesville firemen will think, at least report, that our boys were afraid to meet them on their grounds. Our firemen would be glad to enter the tournament but as they have given so much time to the tournament here, and spent no little money in attending other tournaments this season, they hardly feel as though they could afford to bear the whole expense of attending the Janesville tournament, and so, if the enthusiastic citizens would, they might give the boys a lift. They stand a good chance of winning the first prize.—Beloit Free Press.

Hamlet To-night.

The Miln dramatic company have arrived from Chicago, and will produce Hamlet at Myers opera house this evening. There is a good deal of interest being worked up concerning the appearance of Mr. Miln and Miss Guernsey in this city, and the advance sale of seats has been larger than that for any entertainment since the appearance of Mr. Keene in the winter of 1881. This gives promise of a very large audience, and one that will be made up of the highest intelligence and culture in this city. The attendance to-night will certainly be an honor to Mr. Miln and a well deserved compliment to Miss Guernsey.

It will afford our theater-goers a great pleasure to know that Mr. Miln has secured an excellent company this season. All the interest in the play will not cluster around the star, but his support is made up of splendid material which will insure an excellent production of Hamlet.

FATAL FALL.

A Painter Falls from the Cotton Factory Annex.

This afternoon at twenty minutes to two o'clock a man by the name of G. S. Titus, while examining the roof of the cotton factory annex, preparatory to painting, approached too close to the edge next to the wheel-house on the east end, and fell to the ground, a distance of some thirty feet, receiving internal injuries from which he died in a few minutes.

It appears that the deceased is of the firm G. S. Titus & Co., of Brodhead, Wis., and had just commenced putting on a coat of his metallic and elastic roof paint on the cotton factory annex. He and a couple of young men had commenced work this afternoon. The deceased, followed the boys to the roof, reaching which he walked out to the edge next to the wheel house, and fell to the ground. No one in the city, so far as is known, seems to know him, but it was ascertained from papers found on his person that his name was G. S. Titus, and that he lived in Brodhead. Dr. Henry Palmer immediately telegraphed the facts to Brodhead, but no reply had been received up to our going to press.

A coroner's jury was summoned by Justice of the Peace A. D. Wickham, consisting of Messrs. S. E. Phillips, O. P. Church, A. K. Cutts, W. S. Follenberg, L. Fifield and Wm. B. Cashman, who after viewing the remains, adjourned to Justice Wickham's office, where an inquest was held.

Dr. Henry Palmer was sworn, and stated that he examined the body and found that there was an extensive fracture of the skull and injury to the brain; the indications were that the deceased fell on the right side and top of the head; there were several small cuts in the head produced by small gravel stones which were driven into the flesh, also a wound on the top of the head produced by fragments of the skull, being driven through from the inside; he was about 45 or 50 years of age, of medium size, light brown hair with a little mixture of grey, light mustache, and the top of head quite bald. The jury had not concluded their investigations, when our reporter was obliged to leave.

The remains were placed in charge of Messrs. Britton & Kimball, the undertakers, where they will remain until further orders.

Mr. Miln's Lecture.

On Sunday afternoon at two o'clock, Mr. George C. Miln will deliver his popular lecture, "Candlers and Footlights," at Myers opera house. He will take the ground that the church and the theater are twin children of the religious impulse, and that while the church is an institution which aims to improve society while the stage aims to amuse and distract.

Mr. Miln is a very accomplished speaker. He is counted one of the best in the west. When he was in the pulpit, he commanded a most liberal salary on account of his learning and eloquence. He was paid $5,000 a year, was offered $7,000, and even $10,000, if he would remain in the pulpit, but salary was no object to him when he became convinced that he should exchange the pulpit for the stage. The lecture is one which the people will hear with deep interest. Aside from containing flashes of eloquence, it will furnish food for reflection for all who hear him. The price of admission will be 50 cents.

Rock County Real Estate.

County Clerk Morgan has just completed his statistical report of Rock county, which is to be used by the committee on equalization of the county board of supervisors, at their annual meeting in November. This report has been carefully prepared, and embraces all the products of the county, together with the sale of real estate during the year ending September 1st, 1883. The facts upon which the reports of sales of real estate are based, were taken from the deeds in the office of the register of deeds, and are worth a careful perusal and study by those interested in county affairs. By this report of the sales of real estate in Rock county, exclusive of the cities and villages, we find the following facts: There were sold a total of 28,704 acres of land; the consideration named in the deeds was $1,032,123; average price per acre $35.93, value of the same land last year $878,531; the average assessment per acre $20.04; ratio, .553.

In the fourteen cities and villages of the county, which are Afton, Franklin, Footville, Hanover, Shoppers, Milton, West Milton, Orfordville, Wausau, Clinton, Evansville, Edgerton, Meloit, and Janesville, there were 398 lots sold during the same period, the consideration named in the deeds being $392,914; the value of the same lots on the last tax roll being $208,684, and the ratio .579. Of this number of lots the city of Beloit is credited with 192; the consideration in the deeds being $123,445; value of same lots last tax roll was $85,770; and ratio .527, and the city of Janesville has a credit of 218 lots sold, the consideration in the deeds being $168,946; value last tax roll $109,857, and ratio .652. The table is a valuable one to those in-

THE TWO WORKERS.

(SELECTED FOR THE GAZETTE.)

Two workers in one field. Toiled on from day to day; Both had the same hard labor. Both had the same small pay. With the same blue sky above. The same green earth below. One soul was full of love. The other full of woe.

One looked up with the light. With the shining of the stars; One felt it ever night. For his soul was ever dark. One heart was hard as stone. One heart was ever gay; One worked with many a groan. One whistled all the day.

One had a flower-clad coat Beside a merry mill. Wife and children near the spot. Made it sweeter, fairer still. One a wretched bowl held. Full of discord, dirt and din— No wonder he seemed mad. Wife and children starved within.

Still they worked in the same field. Toiling on from day to day; Both had the same hard labor. Both had the same small pay. But they worked not with one will. The reason lay not in the soil. Let the one drunk at the still. And the other at the well.

THE FIFTEENTH MILE POST.

Yesterday being the fifteenth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Webber, the event was duly celebrated last evening at their home on South Second street, third ward, by a gay party of some forty or fifty ladies and gentlemen, intimate friends of the parties.

The celebration was somewhat of a surprise party to Mr. Webber, planned and executed by his "better half," who managed to keep her husband in the dark until about nine o'clock in the evening. Mr. Webber was taken in charge by one of his friends in the early evening, occupying his time and attention in such a manner that he had not the least suspicion of anything unusual transpiring at his own house until, in company with a couple of friends, he arrived in the neighborhood, and discovered his yard illuminated with Chinese lanterns. He at once "tumbled to the racket" within, and joined with Mrs. Webber in making their numerous friends welcome and happy.

A pleasant social evening was spent in the fine observance of the crystal event. A beautiful supply of refreshments was served, after which dancing was indulged in, and the orchestra furnishing the music, and all were happy at being able to be present on such a joyous occasion, and Mr. and Mrs. Webber received the congratulations of all, for many recurrences of their wedding anniversary. They also received many presents from their friends as mementoes of the pleasant occasion, among which were the following:

Colored water set with tray, W. T. Van Kirk.

Pair vases, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Puffer.

Crackle glass berry dish, Mrs. W. M. Eldredge.

Glass toilet set, Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Blakeley.

Pair vases, Mr. A. H. Tift.

Pair colored vases, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Fuller.

A few of the guests understood the occasion to be the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Webber, hence the display of linen presents among the list.
